

Burbank Public Library Presents

THE EVIL HOURS:

A Biography of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder

Mr. Morris has been invited to our library to celebrate the creation of a special collection of books for veterans made possible through the generosity of the Friends of the Burbank Public Library.

Drawing on his own battles with post-traumatic stress, David J. Morris - a war correspondent and former Marine - has written a humane, unforgettable book.

Through interviews with people living with PTSD, and forays into the rich scientific, literary, and cultural history of the condition, Morris has crafted a moving work. It speaks not only to those with PTSD and their loved ones, but to all of us struggling to make sense of an anxious and uncertain time.
